

Dermatochalasis

Dermatochalasis is a condition in which the skin above or below the eyelid stretches, also known as “baggy eyes”. Dermatochalasis is caused by a loss of elasticity in the tissue supporting the eyelid. It is very common and usually occurs with aging.

Signs and Symptoms

1. Fullness or heaviness of upper eyelids
2. Obstruction of superior visual fields due to excess lid skin
3. Irritation of eyes